American Army Has
Plans for Radiolocator
Far Ahead of Any

Inside Story of Plane
Apparatus Is Told in Part Today

Washington, June 19 (AP)—The United States, already credited with possessing aircraft detection apparatus superior to any in use abroad, was invited today to contribute volunteers to help man Britain's similar "radiolocator" device.

The American apparatus, according to Brigadier General George V. Strong, former chief of war plans, apparently is "far in advance of any similar equipment available to any of the belligerents abroad." The aircraft spotting devices adopted by the army, members of Congress have been told, are effective at well over 100 miles, piercing fog and darkness to give defending fighters at least 15 minutes warning of the approach of hostile aircraft.

With such devices already in large-scale production, the war department has started construction of a string of fixed and mobile warning stations in both the United States and defense outposts.

First deliveries were scheduled to the navy this summer of a new super-sensitive apparatus to enable ships of the fleet to detect the approach of both warplanes and enemy surface ships even when they are far out of sight over the horizon.

Cambridge, Mass., June 19 (AP)—Responding by proxy to a precedent-shattering award of an honorary degree by Oxford University to President Roosevelt yesterday disclosed some of the details of the weapon against night fighters.

In announcing the drive to recruit American volunteers to make and man the English devices, Commodore Pirie said the personnel most desired at present included radio mechanics, skilled engine fitters and metal workers, electrical technicians, instrument makers and repairers, machine tool setters and operators, motor mechanics and engine room repair men.

"Such volunteers will be paid," he said, "in addition to free board and lodging, at the rate of 500 pounds a year ($38.65 per week) for chief foremen and at the rate of six pounds ($24.12) per week for basic workers. During a short period of training required for certain trades, workers will receive, in addition to free board and lodging, a probationary rate of 5/5/0 pounds ($21.11 per week.)

He announced that executive offices of the Civilian Technical Corps, as the volunteers will be called as a group, were at 15 Broad street, New York.

The men will be housed and fed with British technical workers, he continued, and will be supplied with a distinctive blue uniform, and wear insignia designating the corps. They will not, he emphasized repeatedly, be subject to combatant duty.

Spender Tells Australians of Prisoner Losses in Greek Campaign

Canberra, Australia, June 19 (AP)—Army Minister Percy G. Spender told the House of Representatives today that 9,000 British, Australian and New Zealand troops were prisoners in Greece.

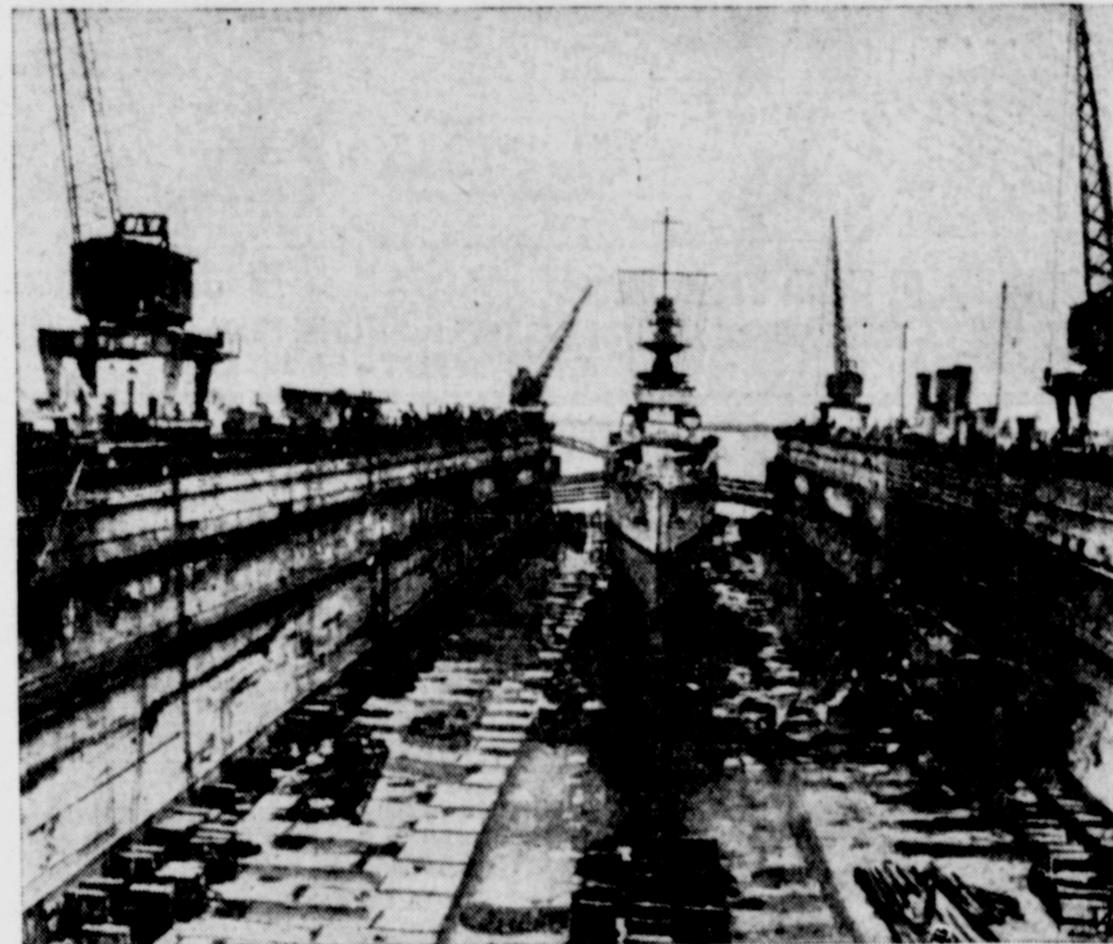

The German high command said last month that 8,200 prisoners were taken in Southern Greece alone.

He said 5,951 Australians had not returned from the campaigns in Greece and Crete.

Australians taking part in the Greek and Crete campaigns totalled 17,236 officers and men, Spender said, of whom 11,285 returned to Egypt and Palestine. Losses in Greece he set at 2,275 and in Crete 3,676.

Oxford Degree Is Given Roosevelt At Harvard Rites

Cambridge, Mass., June 19 (AP)—It appears," said Doctor Thompson, "that the paper proved more difficult than usual and that without adjustment there would be an abnormal number of failures in this subject. The department plans to make such adjustments as will protect the scholastic interests of students."

"We, too, born to freedom and believing in freedom, are willing to fight to maintain freedom," the chief executive said in a message to a citation read by Lord Halifax, the British ambassador and chancellor of Oxford.

The honorary doctorate of civil law was awarded to Mr. Roosevelt at a dramatic ceremony held only a few minutes after Harvard, the United States' oldest university, had awarded an honorary doctorate of laws to Lord Halifax as a representative of a "stalwart nation unyielding before the blows of tyranny." Eleven other honorary degrees also were handed down by Harvard.

Then, the tall ambassador, accompanied by nine officers and delegates of Oxford, England's oldest university, conducted a special convocation of Oxford. It represented a historic transfer of academic functions. Held in the national capital, the President was represented by Major General Edwin M. Watson, his military aide and secretary.

Oxford Tribune

The President's diploma, intended for Lord Halifax, set forth that Oxford's tribute was given "in lively recollection of his stand for liberty and of his steadfast championship of humanity and law."

Turning to the British ambassador, who was arrayed in black and gold robes of state as chancellor of Oxford, General Watson said the President had asked him "to convey this message to his old associates of Harvard University, and especially to his new associates of the University of Oxford."

The text of Mr. Roosevelt's message follows:

"All the world can be enriched by a new symbol which supports truth and the search for truth."

"In days like these, therefore, we rejoice that this special convocation, in breaking all historic precedent, does so in the great cause of preserving the free learning and the civil liberties which have grown stone upon stone in our lands through the centuries. That is why I am proud to be permitted to have a part."

"It is right that this unfettered search for truth is universal and knows no restriction of place or race or creed." There have been other symbols throughout the years and in the present.

Resists Demands

London, June 19 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill resisted demands today in the House of Commons for public debate on the gravity of the shipping situation by insisting it was impossible to state the government's position "except under the protection of the secret session."

The American ambassador in Britain gave recognition to this recently when he said:

"Only this week in London in the secret session."

State Will Adjust Ratings in English

Albany, June 19—The State Education Department plans to make adjustments in the ratings of the students who took the English four years Regents examination Tuesday morning, June 17, and encountered unexpected difficulties, Dr. Harold G. Thompson, director of the Division of Examinations and Testing, announced today. An official announcement will be mailed to each school not later than Friday, June 20.

"It appears," said Doctor Thompson, "that the paper proved more difficult than usual and that without adjustment there would be an abnormal number of failures in this subject. The department plans to make such adjustments as will protect the scholastic interests of students."

Prices in London? Yes, They Have 'Em, If You Have Cash

By EDDIE GILMORE

London, June 19 (AP)—The coming of warm weather and ripening of fruit brought some rare bargains in London's crowded markets today.

One store had a shelf of peaches which a Georgian wouldn't bother to send to market and the price was 75 cents each.

"Yes sir," said a clerk. "We've sold quite a few. There's nothing like a fresh peach, you know."

Lots of strawberries—knotty little specimens—were on display at another store for sale at $3.80 a pound.

A shop offered unrationed cheese from Wisconsin at $1 a pound.

"It's straight from America," the clerk said, "and shoppers like it mighty well."

Tomatoes had come down.

You could get them at many places for $1 a pound.

String beans sold for 90 cents a pound.

Asparagus, which has been difficult to obtain, was on the market at $1.50 a bunch.

"It's a large bunch," said a clerk, "enough for two people."

Canned grapefruit, which also has been hard to find, was offered at 50 cents a can, but the seller said you had to take two cases.

The plebian gooseberry retailed at 10 cents a pound, the only trouble being that, at the four markets we visited, there were none in stock.

Incidentally, you can buy a champagne cocktail for $1.25 and a razor blade for six cents, providing you can find someone who will give you the price of either.

It is right that this unfettered search for truth is universal and knows no restriction of place or race or creed." There have been other symbols throughout the years and in the present.

Ickes Calls Upon Oil Industry to Unite With U. S.

Asks Unity So That Steps

Washington, June 19 (AP)—Interior Secretary Ickes, defense petroleum coordinator, said today a rating card system for use of gasoline in the east was "one of the things under consideration," if rigid restrictions on petroleum were made necessary by the expected oil shortage.

The coordinator declared also "I don't think a drop of oil should be shipped to any place, anywhere" from the Atlantic seaboard. He recently put an embargo on such exports, without prior government approval of each cargo.

Washington, June 19 (AP)—America's $12,000,000,000 oil industry was called upon by Interior Secretary Ickes today to unite with the government "to end that our efforts to defense democracy may not be hampered by any breakdown of the scope of their legitimate duties" and of improper and unwarranted character.

At the same time, however, the undersecretary disclosed that arrangements were already underway for the departure of an estimated 125 consular officers and employees in 24 American cities on the ground they had engaged in "activities wholly outside the scope of their legitimate duties" and of improper and unwarranted character.

United States Requests Safe Trip for Germans

Great Britain Is Asked
by Welles to Pass
Agents Through War Blockade

Washington, June 19 (AP)—The United States has requested Great Britain to assure "safe conduct" through the blockade for all German consular officials in this country, it was learned authoritatively today, as the first move in carrying out President Roosevelt's order that they depart by July 10 because of acts "inimical to the welfare of this country."

The obligations, as well as the interests, of the United States are that the German officials be safely transported to their homes, it was explained, and not be permitted to transfer their operations to Latin American republics where Axis-inspired activities already exist.

Asked whether any action would be taken to prevent the ousted Nazi officials from going to other American republics, Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles emphasized that arrangements were for their direct return to their homeland.

The State Department's prompt action in undertaking to arrange for "safe conduct" through the blockade was described in informed quarters as presaging a flat rejection of the German government's protest against the White House order.

Welles provided a broad hint yesterday that the German protest would be rejected when he said he had informed Hans Thomsen, the German envoy, it would be given consideration.

At the same time, however, the undersecretary disclosed that arrangements were already underway for the departure of an estimated 125 consular officers and employees in 24 American cities on the ground they had engaged in "activities wholly outside the scope of their legitimate duties" and of improper and unwarranted character.

Boys Refuse to Place Blame In Hillside Shotgun Case

Adolph Benitz, 69, Is Held Without Bail for Grand Jury on Charge of Assault

Hillside, N. J., June 19 (AP) — Two 15-year-old boys were hospital patients today and a 69-year-old garden fancier was held by police as the aftermath to a shotgun blast which wounded six Hillside Junior High School students and caused pandemonium on their playground.

In fair condition from pellet wounds in the abdomen and leg, Edward Earle, son of a school board member, was in Elizabeth General Hospital, and his schoolmate, William Mullican, was in St. Elizabeth's Hospital. Four other boys who were peppered with slugs went home after treatment.

Adolph Benitz, retired plant foreman, was held without bail to await action of the Union county grand jury on a charge of atrocious assault and battery after a hearing before Recorder Ellsworth.

Captain Korlesky quoted one of the wounded boys as saying Benitz had warned them continually but "we asked for it and we got it."

Lifting of the passenger carrying limit also may result from the proposed measure. An official said difficulty had arisen in carrying necessary passengers to the new American bases on Atlantic islands because of the passenger limitations.

Their structure is such," he said, "that they are and should be strictly enforced during normal times. During this emergency, however, the priority of national security and national defense must be recognized."

Under Mr. Roosevelt's recommendations, the secretary of commerce would act upon direction of the President or upon the written request of the secretaries of navy, war or treasury, the maritime commission or the office of emergency management.

Vichy Rejects British Ultimatum

J. Sternier, Benitz was taken to the Union county jail at Elizabeth. Benitz lives next door to the school. His garden is separated from the playground by a high fence.

Police Captain Paul Korlesky said Benitz was given the following version of the shooting:

For some time schoolboys had been stealing his cherries and trampling his garden, so he erected the fence.

About 100 boys and girls were milling about the playground yesterday during the noon recess. A group of boys taunted him about the cherries.

"Why don't you get your shotgun?" someone yelled.

He went inside, picked up a shotgun he had not used in 20 years and came back to the yard. He leaned the gun against the house and threatened to shoot if the bantering did not cease.

The gibes were redoubled and someone threw a rock through one of his windows. Then he fired one barrel through the fence.

Captain Korlesky quoted one of the wounded boys as saying Benitz had warned them continually but "we asked for it and we got it."

Raids Are Light

Britain again was only lightly attacked by the Luftwaffe.

A London air ministry announcement said a particularly heavy attack fell on the docks at Brest, "where three German warships are still lying." These are reported to be the battleships Scharnhorst and Gneisenau and a 10,000-ton cruiser of the Hipper class—possibly the Prinz Eugen.

Recapitulating the 3-day battle of Salum, North Africa, the British said Gen. Sir Archibald Wavell's imperial troops withdrew to "original positions east of Salum" with so little interference that "it looks as if the enemy was hit so hard he didn't like to come on—or couldn't."

A London spokesman commenting on Italian assertions that the British used 1,000 tanks in the desert battle, said the actual number was "much less."

Premier Mussolini's high command declared that about 200 British tanks and 42 R.A.F. planes were destroyed and that Axis warplanes were still strafing British troops retreating from the battlefield.

The German high command claimed more British tanks were destroyed south of Salum in the aftermath of the conflict, which the German news agency D.N.B. said was fought in an average noon-day temperature of 131 degrees Fahrenheit.

Other dispatches have told of huge German troop movements into Nazi-dominated areas fronting on the Russian border. These movements have been admitted officially by the Russians. Diplomatic circles in Ankara pictured Stalin as playing desperately for time to mass troops to meet the German threat.

Reuters, British news agency, disseminated the reports about the rumored ultimatum and invasion last night. The ultimatum report, Reuters said, came from Martin Agronsky, National Broadcasting Company representative in Ankara, who was quoted as saying he got it from "most reliable diplomatic sources."

Under Mr. Roosevelt's recommendations, the secretary of commerce would act upon direction of the President or upon the written request of the secretaries of navy, war or treasury, the maritime commission or the office of emergency management.

While driving his automobile through the uptown streets on Wednesday afternoon, Samuel Van Kleek of Main street discovered his car was on fire and drove to the Willywack Fire Station on Fair street, where the firemen used a fire extinguisher successfully. KINGSTON, NEW YORK, JUNE 19, 1941.

1941 COMMENCEMENT

Commencement this year means much more to college and high school graduates than it has in recent years. Markedly changed conditions call for the youth of our land to share in the responsibilities of our nation. Today in contrast to those of only a few years ago, there is a place for youth. The present national emergency affords this opportunity. For the male youth there is the army draft or voluntary enlistments in the various armed branches of our country. Secondly, there is the opportunity to work.

College and high school graduates are being urged to register with the New York State Employment Service immediately after graduation. In making this appeal, the director of the service declares that in view of the emergency an increasing number of people are going to be required by defense industries. The rapidly expanding defense program is causing an increased demand for all kinds of workers. Shortages are already evident in many lines of work, and new fields of employment are being opened for thousands of young people. The 1941 graduate, although he may lack specific experience, will be able to find employment much sooner than did graduates of classes of previous years.

In order to maintain our new position among the nations, it now appears that we will continue this program of developing our armament for some years to come, giving this year's graduate plenty to do during this period.

SINKING THE "SUBS"

The great menace in the Battle of the Atlantic is the submarine, as it was in the last war. Its ravages lately have been so devastating that if it is not mastered soon the war may be lost.

This peril was met in the last war by American warships, mainly destroyers and smaller surface craft, combing the infested regions and sinking the sinkers. The process is more difficult now because the submarines are better built, faster, more powerful and more dangerous. But it is an axiom of military strategy that for every problem there is a solution.

The chief protection of a submarine is its invisibility. It becomes visible under water, however, when seen from a height. So its most effective enemies are airplanes carrying depth bombs. If every cargo ship or convoy could be protected by scouting and bombing planes there would be few sinkings.

There is hope now in a new American plan, by which many merchant vessels will be turned into "escort" airplane carriers accompanying cargo fleets. The transformation can be made in three months. One such vessel carries about a dozen light scout bombers which can rise and patrol the sea in the vicinity of the convoyed ships, depth-bombing discovered submarines and returning again to their mother ship. The result will be watched hopefully.

MORE AND BETTER PLAY

According to the Yearbook of the National Recreation Association, public recreation departments in 1,116 American cities set new records last year in the number of their full-time leaders, volunteers, playgrounds and softball diamonds. Swimming, skating, picnicking, social recreation and softball are the most popular of the recreation opportunities offered. Other favorites are baseball, horse-shoes and tennis. There is increasing interest in such comparative newcomers in this field as archery, lawn bowling, handball and shuffleboard.

Not long ago many sociologists were worried because Americans had leisure and didn't know what to do with it. Today, whether as a result of directed effort to develop wholesome recreation for everybody, or whether as a natural development that followed the possession of leisure, there is much actual participation in sports and games of all kinds.

It is a good thing. Americans will have to work harder and think harder in the next months and years than they have done for some time. They will need to know how to relax easily and to have good fun combined with healthful exercise if they are to work and think at their best. Wise use of leisure is important both to the employed person and to the unhappily unemployed.

SOAKED DUST BOWL

If it isn't one thing, it's another, and the latest misfortune in the way of weather is actually "too much rain in the dust bowl." Unprecedented rains have begun to work havoc with winter wheat in that region.

A week ago grain men were counting on a bumper harvest of winter wheat because the early growing weather had been so fine. Now, however, when ripening weather is wanted, the excessive rains have come. If clear weather is not too long delayed, all will not be lost. But continued rain will cause serious damage.

It will be most unfortunate to have any large amounts of wheat spoiled, yet the situation may have redeeming features if the underground water levels begin to gain and the danger of having vast amounts of fertile soil blown away is ended.

The trouble with this country is that we're too innocent, and don't suspect deviltry till we're half ruined.

You can get another line on the trend of the times from the fact that a "sky pilot" used to be a preacher and is now a bomber.

CLIMATE AND SYMPTOMS

That a change of scene, a change of climate, is helpful in some ailments is true. In those who are nervous with a tendency to ulcer of the stomach or of the small intestine, a climate where the atmosphere is warm and moist means that they are less energetic, less anxious to be doing something, and quite willing to rest themselves. This explains why in the northern part of the United States there is a large proportion of cases of stomach and intestinal ulcers than in the southern part. It explains also why patients with stomach ulcer would do well to get to a warm and moist climate for a while and learn how to "rest" and "keep quiet."

The warm moist climate is also helpful in cases of high blood pressure, or where the nervous condition of the individual is causing an increased heart rate with the possibility of a weakening of the heart muscle. In other words, when the patient is nervous, excitable, emotional, a climate that makes him willing to rest takes away the tension or spasms that aggravates his symptoms.

Even a change of scene, which takes the individual away from his troubles and worries, will relieve the symptoms to some extent.

However, where there is sinus, throat, or ear conditions, it is the dry, warm climate that should be sought. Sometimes a stay of six months to a year in a dry climate such as Arizona or Colorado will "dry up" the chronic sinus trouble. The dry climate is also the type best suited for tuberculosis, but in some cases a dry, cool or cold climate is best, where the patient is kept quiet or in bed and not allowed to exercise too much as the atmosphere may be too stimulating.

Now what about the great majority of patients suffering from the effects of nervousness on heart, blood pressure, tendency to stomach and intestinal ulcer, who must remain in their present climate and are unable to go to the "special" type of climate best suited to their case?

The main reason why the warm climate gives relief in these cases is because the warmth discourages work, exercise, and tenseness of mind and body.

If these patients would rest more, rest more in bed at night and during the day, and keep warm, they would get much of the benefit obtained by going to a warm climate.

Rest prevents the tenseness and tenseness is the biggest factor in causing the symptoms.

FSA FOSTERS FOOD DEFENSE

Borrowers under the Farm Security Administration program in the southeast are swinging into line with the Department of Agriculture's new "Food for Defense" program which is aimed to help farmers produce more meat, dairy, and poultry products. Since one of the main reasons for Farm Security loans is to help small farmers raise more of their living right in their own back yards, many borrowers were already well started toward increased production. But now, spurred by the necessity of raising produce for Britain and for our own defense, the 80,000 Farm Security Administration families in Florida, Alabama, Georgia and South Carolina are going into the food business in a bigger way, planning to sell the increased production of "defense foods." The aim is to have each of these 80,000 families increase livestock production this crop year by adding 50 more chickens, one more brood sow, and two more milk cows to its farm plan. Over and above any loans made already, the Farm Security Administration has released more than $4,000,000 for loans to families to help them reach this goal and thus do their part in helping insure food enough for Britain and for home needs.

'Battle of Washington,' Not Always Apparent, Strikes at Heart of National Defense and Unity

(By DAVID LAWRENCE)

Washington, June 19—For several months the "battle of Washington" has been going on between the politicians and bureaucrats on the one hand and the management executives of American industry. It is a battle not always visible to the naked eye, but nevertheless it goes to the heart of the question of national unity and efficient effort for war.

It remained for Secretary Ickes in his testimony before a Senate committee to reveal inadvertently the outlines of this battle and the main reason why America's war effort has been slow to get moving—the reason is that the New Deal evidently is planning to use the billions of dollars of tax money now being extracted or billions being borrowed on defense bonds to re-make the economic system so as to provide wherever possible for government ownership and operation and nationalization of industry after the war. This means more power for the bureaucrats and more waste for the politicians and more waste of public funds.

Many businessmen have not been able to get enthusiastic about a war effort which is a camouflage scheme for destroying the system of competitive individualism and for substituting state capitalism or national socialism analogous to that used to exploit European peoples.

Business men have come here under patriotic impulse to help the government's national defense program only to find themselves a source of suspicion and distrust. New Dealers carry on a constant smearing campaign against them, in public and private, and lately the tactics have been to try to place the responsibility for America's slow-moving defense program on the shoulders of industry itself. This effort to shift the blame is a smokescreen to hide the real purposes of the radicals who favor government ownership and control of the large industries of the country after the war.

A reading of the testimony of Secretary Ickes before a Senate committee reveals in clear outline the conspiracy of the New Deal to use the war funds and plants built up during the war as a lever to break up business and industry and force more government ownership and control of monopoly may be even more dangerous in dangerous times than it is in normal times," testified Mr. Ickes. "Our whole defense effort becomes dependent upon the skill, resourcefulness and devotion to the public welfare of a few individuals who own and control the monopoly."

This is a serious charge and a slur on the patriotism of the men of American business. Instead of worrying really how to get aluminum from the one company that has specialized in it, Mr. Ickes is worrying more about how to break up the corporate structure and business momentum of that same company. This is peacetime politics, but in wartime it means tragic delay and obstruction. Mr. Ickes is preoccupied with what will happen after the war, and so are many American business men.

"That would be satisfactory so far as I am concerned, reserving, however, as I said, the right of the government to continue to operate or to lease or to sell."

It is not clear why that right should be interposed now, but in that same testimony the Secretary of the Interior gives his ideas of what competition ought to be after the war and what prices should be set by new units of smaller size, helped presumably by these government plants or else the government would use its plants as a club over private industry.

It is precisely this misuse of the defense program to carry on economic warfare in America which is intensifying the "battle of Washington" and sabotaging the progress of defense work. The war, in the eyes of many New Dealers, apparently is a war to preserve the New Deal and only incidentally a war to save Britain and America.

"ANN CARMENY," by Hoffman

Birney Hoffman Birney continues to grow, novel by novel. His "Ann Carmen" is, I think, the best he has written so far, and one of the best books of its type the year will see. This type, it should be added, is not an easy one for any writer.

"Ann Carmen" is a historical novel, one which uses its historical material as background and does not attempt to find its strength in actual events, nor wrap these events thinly with a fictional veneer.

The body is set in the Utah and Montana of the '60s, one of the most turbulent and at the same time most rewarding periods in American history from a novelist's standpoint.

Ann's father dies in Salt Lake City on his way to California with a wagon train. But Ann is not left destitute, which in a sense is her great difficulty. She has two great difficulties, the best wagon and stock in the train, plenty of equipment—and $15,000 in gold. The gold was under a false bottom in the seat box of the wagon, and because Salt Lake city was then a center for some pretty unsavory characters, it seemed best to deposit the gold with Wells Fargo. This forethought caused most of her trouble.

It was during the administration of W. J. Dempsey as mayor that the city purchased McVeys Field from the Newark Lime and Cement Company, and renamed it McVeys Field, which name

Moonshine Crop
Memphis, Tenn. (P)—Pete Zarzoli scoffed last year at the prognostications of Professor Cotton Whitaker, an unofficial weather prophet of note who believes crops planted in the dark of the moon have greater yields than those planted in the light of the moon.

A gardening contest was arranged under a full moon, proved clearly superior to those of Whitaker, planted when there was little, if any moonlight. In recognition of his ability, Zarzoli was made foreman of a WPA truck farm of 25 acres.

LEND-LEASE VOYAGE

Testing 'Ash Cans of Death'

(Last of three articles)

By Morgan M. Beatty

(P) Feature Service Writer
Aboard H.M.S.—At Sea—"Release depth charges."

The order came down from the bridge of our lend-lease ship.

The English tar at the racks on the stern pulled a plug, and the ash-can of death to submarines splashed into the ocean.

We put on a burst of speed while the bomb was finding the deep level where it would burst automatically from pressure. I braced myself for an explosion.

I got the surprise of my life. I heard a noise like a distant shotgun fired in a foggy November field. A sort of "Boom." In a minute or two I saw a great area of the ocean behind us suddenly flatten out, glisten in the sun.

There was a shimmery, rapid vibration on the surface, like heat waves, only faster and mossier.

That was all.

"What?" I asked. "No explation?"

"No," explained the officer, at my side. "Not at that dept. Nor fish, either."

He was looking over the side, obviously disappointed at bringing up no fresh fish for supper.

Nor was there any submarine, for we were just practicing with American depth charges. Our senior officer was putting our squadron through the paces of submarine attack, our last drill before I was to leave ship at an Eastern Canadian port.

I was glad of that for the crew's sake. I thought they needed a respite, even though they never seemed to mind the pace. We had zig-zagged ourselves seasick. We had signalled ourselves blue in the face. We fired practice rounds frequently, did 45-degree starboard turns.

'Your Women? Fresh'
Now we were about to get a rest. I went below, asked my cabin boy to pack me up when he had a free moment.

"Davey," I asked, "what did you like most about America on your brief stay with us?"

"The big cities. They were fine. Life seems to begin at midnight."

"And how about our girls, Davey?"

"They're a bit fresh, don't you think, sir?"

"Fresh?"

"I've seen them roll their stockings in the street, sir."

Davey was embarrassed.

He and the other lads who kept the wardroom shipshape and fed the crew obviously were tickled pink with their American ship.

What impressed them most was the gadgets.

AMMUNITION—MADE IN U. S. A.: American guns require American ammunition, so lend-lease sailors take on a load from U. S. coast guard vessel.

"There seems to be a gadget for everything except your fingernails," he said, "and you're likely to get them clipped too if you don't mind."

Our food was well prepared, extremely clean, and less greasy than the fare on most American warships. Outstanding was their standard curried rice with chutney, though it's hot enough to scald a fellow.

Skip The Coffee

The coffee? Let's skip it. They tried very hard, but they just don't know what to do with coffee. The big coffee percolator—a standard fixture in the crew's quarters of every American warship—was soon being used to distill cocoa.

British officers liked American desserts better than their own, wished they could get coffee the American way. But they didn't like our cigarettes very much, thought they were a bit strong. I thought the same thing about theirs.

Captain Edward V. Rickenbacker, America's ace flyer, confined at Piedmont Hospital in Atlanta, Ga., since he was injured in an air crash on February 27, states in a letter to Jack Rabin, his local buddy:

"My progress has been quite steady and sure during the past few weeks, so I am planning to leave for New York and home the latter part of this month providing nothing unforeseen develops."

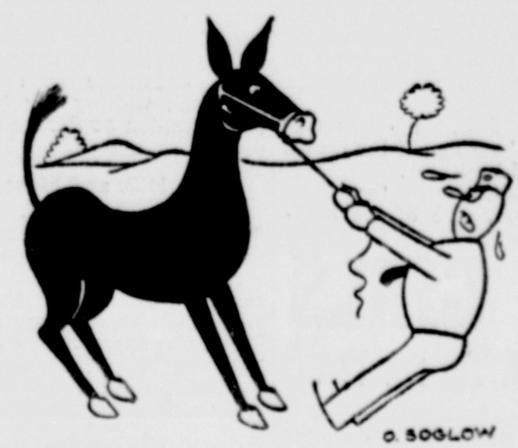

"Again many thanks for your interest and with kind regards, I remain,

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

—Business As Usual—

Baltimore—Not a man moved from his chair or took his eyes from his cards more than a flickering moment when an auctioneer at a creditors' sale stepped up to a round table in the Baltimore Athletic Club.

"What am I bid for this fine poker table?" he asked the crowd of buyers and kibitzers.

FAT GIRLS

Here's A Tip For You

All over America Kruschen Salts is appealing to girls and women who strive for an attractive, free-from-fat figure that seldom fails to win admiration.

Here's the recipe that banishes fat and brings into blossom all the natural attractiveness that every woman possesses.

Every morning take $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water before breakfast; eat out pastries and fatty meats; go light on white bread, potatoes, butter and cream—that sort of diet this morning. In three weeks get on the scales and note how many pounds of fat have vanished. Notice also that you've gained in energy, you feel more alert, your eyes sparkle with more glorious health—you feel younger in body, keener in mind.

Leading druggists America over sell Kruschen Salts (a famous English formula) plus a new, effervescent, sparkling—pleasant. You can always get it at Cut Rate Pharmacy. Try one bottle, lasts 4 weeks and costs but little. If not supremely satisfied, money back—Adv.

ers bought the table. And to make sure the club would continue, two past presidents bought the entire property after bids had been made on individual items.

—Agriculture Note—

Felecity, O.—Last spring Councilman Don Kennedy heaved some old potatoes into a trash can already containing tin cans, rope, paper, and other rubbish.

This week he's eating new potatoes out of the trash can "planting" and waiting for his garden crop, planted at the same time, to produce.

Milk and Money

Caldwell, Idaho—C. Ben Ross farms farming much more remuneratively than serving as governor.

Says Ross who retired to his ranch in 1937 after three terms as Idaho's chief executive.

"In May those 70 cows I'm milking brought in $813, nearly twice as much as I ever got in one month for being governor."

—Fun at the Bar—

Omaha—Municipal Judge Denis O'Brien demonstrated the judiciary may pun with impunity.

Deputy County Attorney Al Fiedler was prosecuting a drunk in driving charge against a man who said he was "out all night dancing."

"Those who dance must pay the fiddler," the judge remarked as he fined the defendant $25 and suspended his driver's license for 90 days.

Two-Million Fund Dies in Cafeteria At Board Meeting

Philanthropic Balance Slip Is Okayed, 20-Year-Old Organization Disbands Forever

Has Odd History

Mount Vernon Resident Felt He Didn't Need $90,000 Legacy

By PAT McGRAW

New York, June 19 (AP)—A half-dozen men and women met in an obscure Irving Place cafeteria, okayed a $2,000,000 balance sheet and shook hands—disbanding the American Fund for Public Service, Inc., which for two decades had supported controversial movements.

In contrast to the birth of the fund in 1922, which stood the country on its ear, the demise yesterday was quiet. It died in its sleep.

Charles Garland, now 40, created the fund with an inheritance he refused to accept. He said then he didn't deserve the $900,000 his banker-father bequeathed him, and he turned it over to a liberal red-pink board of trustees, declining even to join in its administration.

The market boom of the last '20's more than doubled the value of the original bequest, and for years the fund grew despite hand-over-fist disbursements to strikers, political movements, negro societies, tenant farmers, labor colonies, unions, publications and a wide variety of other "causes."

Almost Two Million Given

During the last 19 years, $1,967,711.73 was given away or sunk in "loans," mostly bad.

Between $2,000 and $3,000 will be returned to Garland, when liquidation is complete.

"The trustees did a much better job than I could do," Garland said. "If I had it to do over again, I don't know that I'd be as dogmatic as I was in disposing of this fortune—but I suppose I'd do pretty much the same thing."

"I think I've gotten more out of my inheritance this way. I think that the person who lives like the average man gets more out of life than the one who lives on a large income. I still feel that large inheritances should be spent not on personal living but on something of more social value."

Lives at Mount Vernon

Garland, whose youth was highlighted by personal and financial escapades, lives quietly with his second wife and four children in Mount Vernon, where he spends much of his time working for the Farm Research Cooperative.

He said executors of his father's will "saw to it" that he could not spend or give away all his money.

"So now I have an income sufficient to live on," he added. "It covers the necessities of life. No, I don't give money away any more."

"Garland has been the ideal donor," commented Roger N. Baldwin, veteran Civil Liberties counsel who served as president of the fund.

"He has scarcely ever attended a trustees' meeting."

Baldwin admitted that the directorate—composed of former Communist Benjamin Gitlow, Socialist Norman Thomas, Liberal Morris Ernst and labor and literary figures—had engaged in many arguments, "but no director ever resigned."

"Everything considered, I'd call that harmony," he added.

Burly Admiral Calm of Manner

By ALEXANDER R. GEORGE

AP Feature Service Writer

Washington—No unctuous diplomatist of stiff-necked militarist is burly, grizzled 64-year-old Admiral Kichisaburo Nomura, Japan's ambassador to the United States.

The veteran naval officer, who was foreign minister for a brief period in 1939, has a bluff, natural manner which a fellow Japanese official says "accounts for the ease with which he adjusts himself to America and gets along with its frank and outspoken people."

Admiral Nomura likes to visit with people of varied classes and nationalities. He speaks English quite brokenly but reads it with considerable celerity. He is a prodigious reader of historical and political publications and is a chain cigarette smoker. Daily walks and an ability to relax quickly help keep him fit.

Had Close Calls

A 6-foot, 200-pound member of a family of the military class, Nomura reminds many of a Samurai swordsman of Japan's feudal era.

The admiral twice has touched shoulders with sudden death. In the Russo-Japanese war he was a navigating officer on a destroyer which struck a mine outside Port Arthur. Nomura, on the bridge with the commander, was rescued from the crew perished in the icy waters and rapid current, but the husky Nomura swam until he was picked up by a boat.

Grew Can Talk Tough Turkey

By JOHN GROVER

AP Feature Service Writer

Washington—Ask diplomats from Ankara to Copenhagen to describe Joseph Clark Grew, U. S. ambassador to Japan, and the answers would probably be something like this:

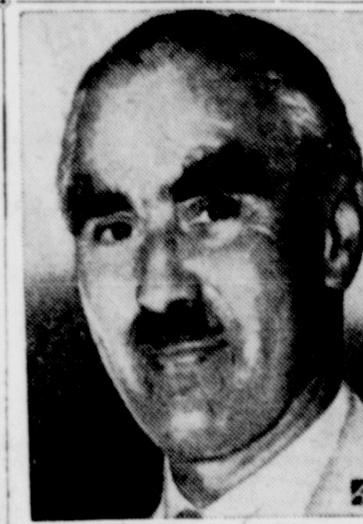

When you see the bushiest eyebrows in diplomatic circles and a flawless Groton—Harvard accent hitched to a man talking tough turkey to a group of startled Japanese bigwigs, it's Grew in typical action.

After nine years in Tokyo, Boston-born Ambassador Grew is skipping U. S. affairs through troubled Asiatic waters.

Grew never has hesitated to talk bluntly to the biggest big shots in Japan. On October 19, 1939, speaking before the American-Japan society, with government officials present, he proceeded to a blistering indictment of Japanese methods in the China "incident."

Last December 19, Foreign Minister Matsuo, at a farewell party for present Japanese Ambassador to the U. S., Kichisaburo Nomura, said the U. S. sympathy for China was "largely sentimental."

Grew popped up, and in language startling in its bluntness, told Matsuo he was mistaken, at the

when he went to Mexico City as third secretary. After that, it was St. Petersburg, second secretary in Berlin, secretary in Vienna, counselor in Berlin, chargé d'affaires in Vienna, chief of the state department division of western European affairs, secretary of the Versailles peace delegation, undersecretary of state, minister to Denmark, minister to Switzerland, Ambassador to Turkey and finally Ambassador to Japan.

Mrs. Grew was Alice Perry, granddaughter of the Admiral Perry whose ships opened Japan to trade and modernism in the 1850's. She's famous as a hostess in the world's capitals.

Fights Into Japanese Life

In Japan, Grew has carved a place as the most effective U. S. ambassador in many years. Suave and cosmopolitan, he fits smoothly into the involved ceremonialness of official Japanese life. He towers over the small-statured Japanese, is a familiar figure on Tokyo golf links.

He has counseled peace in the Pacific. He says frankly that any ambassador who lets a war break under him has failed. But he can talk tough, plenty, and act tough.

That's the man who's Uncle Sam's No. 1 listening post in the Far East, on whose advice the country must depend in navigating the currently heaving waters of the Pacific.

Hoodlum Duchess Dies Tomorrow for Part in Murders

Mistress Spinelli Will Be First Woman to Die in California Prison; Had Evil Career

By LESLIE SMITH

San Quentin, Calif., June 19 (AP)—The Duchess dies tomorrow.

Barring improbable last minute reprieve, Evelita Juanita Spinelli, 52, mistress of a hoodlum gang, will die in the gas chamber at San Quentin prison—first woman to be executed legally in the state of California.

Described at her trial as a former member of the notorious Detroit "Purple Gang" she was convicted with three of her confederates of murdering a fifth.

Robert Sherrod was 19, of the mob the Duchess ruled. He was present when the gang killed a barbecue operator on the San Francisco ocean front. The man was deaf; didn't hear the command to put his hands up. They shot him through the belly.

Sherrod, white with fear when the gang drove a stolen car into Sacramento, babbled in dread of the police. The Duchess told him she was deaf; didn't hear the command to put his hands up. They shot him through the heart.

They went to a hotel room and the Duchess brought out a bottle. Albert Ives, 24, one-eyed hoodlum sentenced to the insane asylum instead of the gas chamber, related at the murder trial what happened then.

Gets His Drops

Knockout drops were put in Sherrod's highball. The gang took him to the Sacramento river. Sherrod's clothing was stripped off and swimming trunks pulled on him.

Then, Ives said, the Duchess showed them where to hit Sherrod over the head. "She used to be a nurse," he explained.

Having faked an accidental death, they threw the unconscious youth into the river.

Meanwhile, the half-witted Ives had aroused the Duchess' ire by leaving stupid clues to a hold-up. She threatened him. His mind already was unhinged by the cold-blooded Sherrod killing. He feared Mrs. Spinelli would do the same to him, so he called the police.

Ives' fears were well ground. Lieut. Michael Mitchell of San Francisco police said the Duchess admitted she had marked Ives for death.

"I was going to stick a long hatpin in his ear," he quoted her.

Sentenced to death with the Duchess were Mike Simeone, 33, her common-law husband and one-time Detroit steel worker, and Gordon Hawkins, 22, gawky San Francisco youth out of jail only three months when he joined the Spinelli gang.

Treaty Paves Way for German Infiltration, Power in Turkey; Britain Not Surprised

Hopes for Time

Turkish Act Is to Give Nation Time for Break

By FRED VANDERSCHMIDT

(Freeman Special News Service)

Hitler has calculated and timed the German-Turkish treaty of "friendship" so that it will add the greatest possible weight to his military pressure on Russia. The effect on Britain is not so immediate, although the treaty is, of course, intended by the Nazis as a war politics weapon in their long-range strategy against the British in the Near East.

The treaty closes the last effective route by which western aid might conceivably reach Russia, at a time when Germany seems to be telling the Soviets that they must either enter into a state of economic, political and military subjugation or fight an enormous concentration of Nazi troops from the Baltic to the Black Sea. It shuts off the air bases from which British planes might attack German troops in Russia. The Black Sea already is so fringed with German air power that it would be a trap for the British fleet, although Turkey might, under previous obligations, be required to let that fleet get through the Dardanelles to go to Russia's aid.

Permits Infiltration

The Turkish pact permits Germany to begin the familiar process of infiltration and domination of Turkey; to weaken Turkish resistance in preparation for the day when the Reich may find it convenient to use Asia Minor as a military road to Syria and Suez.

Britain is not surprised, nor are there any illusions in London about the treaty's escape clause which on paper permits the continuation of the Turkish-British alliance. This treaty, negotiated almost exactly two years ago, pledged France, Britain and Turkey to help each other "in case of an act of aggression which might lead to war in the Mediterranean region." But the pact went into effect on the 18th of June.

THE SACRED DAGGER

By Rita Mohler Hanson

YESTERDAY: Anne Willard has been waiting to see how she and the sacred dagger she has been given can be used to free her parents, who are held prisoners by the Asiatic tribe of the Nagaras because the Willards have seen their hidden city, forbidden to outside eyes. And now, suddenly, the Nagaras have burst into the camp and Anne and her friends are breakfasting in preparation for the hard ride to the Nagara country.

Chapter 28

Wild Ride

IT DOESN'T make sense to me," remarked Larry, shaking his head. "A bunch of more or less intelligent American college people mixed up with mystic daggers and treasure cities and ancient prophecies. Such things just don't happen."

"Then what is it?" Mackey demanded. "a collective nightmare?"

Sherwood grinned. "These tribesmen look real enough and sound real enough and smell real enough to me. Be sure to take extra clothing along—a duffle bag to tie behind the saddle."

"...and your red flannel underwear," advised Mackey. "We're climbing into altitude."

"Did you get the radio going?" Anne asked him.

"Only for a moment. Blaze had exchanged half a dozen words with Shan Lui when that gorilla and his broadsword burst into the room."

Diana looked at Sherwood. "Then you got a chance to call for help."

"Help! Isn't this the Nagara delegation you've been waiting for?"

Philip answered sourly. "We hardly expected a bunch of bandits."

"Sorry, Diana," said Sherwood ignoring him. "I'm afraid my presence is to blame for the rough stuff."

She smiled at him archly. "You seem to inspire banditry, Blaze, wherever you go."

"It's never my intention," he assured her.

She seemed to suspect a double meaning in his words, and sat back and looked around the table.

"Perhaps I ought to tell you people," she said with a smile, "that my husband has left me. The men looked embarrassed except for Dr. Martaine, whose cold, colorless face did not change expression. 'I'm a free woman,' she finished.

"Lines form on the right," muttered Beth. There followed a distressing little silence broken by the appearance of the Nagara chieftain, and the little lama, who drew up behind Anne's chair and spoke.

"He wishes to know which man is yours."

She rose in confusion. "Why, I haven't—" she began and stopped. Then she pointed to Philip Oliver. "This is the man I came to marry."

Philip flushed brightly. Anne could feel disapproval exuding from Doddap. Her glance stole to Sherwood. He was staring at his plate.

The others had also risen. Larry demanded facetiously: "Ask him if he doesn't want to know which one is Beth's man."

"Are you lisping?" his wife giggled nervously.

"I'd pick Doddap as best man," grinned Mackey. "As interpreter he can tell each side whatever he pleases."

Doddap drew himself up angrily. "I tell what comes," he said. "I do not cheat for anyone."

Mackey apologized hastily. Sherwood gave the little fellow an affectionate look.

Anne caught Sherwood's eye. "You see—being in my camp did not protect you from the Nagaras."

"I'm not dead yet," he said, and turned to Diana, who had put a hand on his arm.

Anne ordered the cooks to prepare a lunch for each one. Then the white people were allowed to go to their tents. Dr. Martaine stopped Anne and asked her to intercede that he might go to Chuka instead. She complied but he was refused.

Soldiers led the required number of saddle horses into the courtyard, long-haired ponies with "What a mess we all got into when we joined this expedition," exclaimed Diana.

Anne wanted to say something angry and cutting. Beth caught her eye and winked. "Save your energy and look at Doddap."

The little man rode not far behind nibbling on his cheese in its skin wrapping.

"That's a magic cheese," said Beth admiringly. "He's always gnawing on it and it never seems to decrease in size."

Anne smiled. "He must like it better than the lunch Hule fixed for him."

The Nagaras called a halt for rest.

Sundown had brought them up to the edge of a wide valley, an elevated steppe abundantly watered by running streams and beginning to green in the setting sun. Here lay a Nagara border village of stone houses and felt tents inclosed in courtyards surrounded by high walls of rock and mud.

A fresh clean yurt had been set up for the Americans in the courtyard of the headman's house. A little brook ran beside it. Anne and Philip were allowed to roam at will and Doddap had somehow managed the same perquisite.

"Sacred cows of India!" Beth called them as she lay groaning on the felt and furs that floored their yurt. "Not that I care. I wouldn't move if I could."

Philip took the lame off with him to explore the town.

Anne stepped out and watched the last contingent of travelers ride in. Sherwood, his hands still bound, was led stumbling into a tiny stone hut in one corner of the court. A guard was placed at the door.

"Dog house," said Mackey at her shoulder.

She turned and stared at him, biting her lips in distress.

"Pete, is there anything I can do about it?"

"We might go over and see."

She went inside the yurt, and picked up a big bearskin robe to take to him. The young guard bowed to Anne respectfully but refused them admission, his hand on the door bolt. She reached out to draw his hand away. He snatched it off before she could touch him and drew back in fright, verifying what she had begun to suspect.

"These people are afraid for me to touch them. Do they think I'm contaminating?"

"Sacred, likely; it's often the same thing."

She smiled at the young guard. He smiled back shyly.

Individual Courtesy

A corporation may spread itself over the whole world and may employ a hundred thousand men, but the average person will usually form his judgment of it through his contact with one individual. If this person is rude or inefficient it will take a lot of kindness and efficiency to overcome the bad impression.

Change

Unless we constantly seek and find ways and means to do a better job, unless we accept the challenge of the changing times, we shall eventually find ourselves among the vanquished in the battle of life. The man who is satisfied is the man who is done.

Cashin Students Present Revue

The 12th annual dance revue by the Cashin School of Dancing was presented last evening at the Broadway Theatre. Throughout the 11 scenes the students showed careful training on the part of their instructors.

Taking as its theme, "Starlight Revue," the revue opened with a scene "On the Planet Venus," using a large silver star as background. Carol Murphy, as the bright star, is a promising young performer. The theme of stars was then carried through in each scene with sparkling costumes and dance rhythms.

Miss Anne Tierney sang several numbers, one of which "It's a Great Day for the Irish" was followed by a difficult tap Irish reel. Other tap numbers that drew a fine round of applause were those of Billy Reilly, Sally Oaks and Walter May, Jr.

There were many graceful ballet scenes with specialty numbers by talented toe and acrobatic dancers, among whom was graceful Miss June Yesse, one of the youngest toe dancers. During part of the Springtime scene the entire stage was darkened with only the daisy petals and ballet hoops visible to the audience. Miss Corrine Shader in this scene and Miss Blossom Barnett in her acrobatic specialty, "Song of India" were well chosen to portray a combination of skill and grace in their art of acrobatic dancing. Special mention should also be made of the dancing doll scene with Patsy and Theresa Carr, Phyllis Mary Cornwall tapping on a large top hat, the jolly pair, Catherine and Stephen Huben who danced to the "Parade of the Wooden Soldiers," and Charlotte Havlin an advanced pupil who appeared in a number of routines featuring various types of dancing.

In addition to the expertly performed routines, the costumes by Mrs. H. Hankinson and special lighting effects of this year's show make it outstanding. The revue will be repeated this evening.

Birthday Party

Mrs. Frank Kouhoupt of 10 Hurley avenue entertained a number of young people, Tuesday, June 17, in honor of the seventh birthday of her grandson, Kenneth Kouhoupt. Various games were enjoyed by the children. A group of 32 members and friends enjoyed ladies' day at the Wiltwyck Golf Club but because of the rain the tournament could not be played. A delicious luncheon was served by Mrs. Raymond LeFevre and Mrs. Ernest LeFevre. Many of the ladies played bridge in the afternoon.

Next Wednesday the weekly tournament will be played as usual. Mrs. Cornelius Treadwell and Miss Mary Treadwell will be hostesses for the day. Luncheon guests are requested to please make reservations in advance.

Style in Two-Piece Effect

Marian Martin

PATTERN 9744

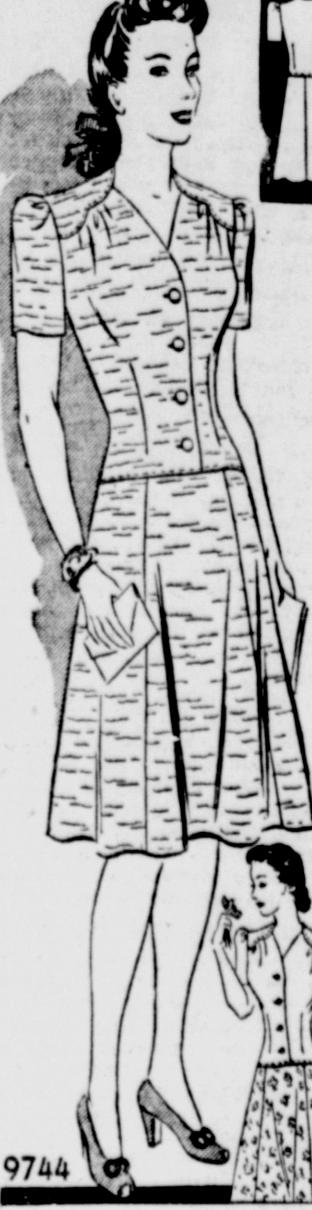

Here are two current fashion headlines in one Marian Martin style, Pattern 9744. For this vivacious new frock shows both a two-piece effect AND a popular long-waisted look with its low-placed hip-seaming and front bodice buttoning. A decorative and very feminine touch is given by those deceptively scalloped yokes that hold soft gathers below. Notice how nicely the waist is fitted-in with front and back darting. One panel goes down the front of the slim-yet-easy skirt. Let your sleeves be short, three-quarter length or long. This dress would be attractive in a colorful shantung . . . or try the skirt in flowered contrast to a monotonous top.

Pattern 9744 may be ordered only in misses' and women's sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 requires 3 1/4 yards 35 inch fabric.

Never Seal Envelope Born by Friend—Fads in Attire to be Avoided at Formal Occasions—Salad Should Not Be Included in Tea Menu

It is extremely rude to hand a letter that is sealed to a friend or acquaintance who is taking it to someone for you. "But," asks one of my readers, "if it is rude to seal such a message, what can one do if the envelope contains enclosures that might fall out and be lost?"

The answer to this is that it would be equally rude on the part of the person who is carrying the letter should he (or she) fail to seal it in your presence as soon as you hand it to him (or her). These rules will not help you very much, however, if the particular messenger you speak of happens not to know what is expected of him. Under the circumstances it will be necessary to say to him, (or her), "Will you please look into the envelope and then do you mind sealing it, to make sure the enclosures won't fall out?"

Wedding Details That Are Wrong

Dear Mrs. Post: I used to be called the "Emily Post" of a small town where I lived. I was the only one who had a copy of your book and everyone came to me to know the answers—particularly about weddings. But now that I live here, I have seen some strange things, and I wondered whether your newer editions may have been changed. For example: (1) The groom and his attendants wearing white ties with tuxedos; (2) the bride entering the church on the father's left. The third point is told me by a friend who lately saw the men in the wedding wearing maroon ties and flowers to match with white tuxedo coats and dark tuxedo trousers. Will you please answer these three points in your column and dignitely separate the right from the wrong?

Answer: You are right—all three are wrong. The white tie with the tuxedo is permissible only on a waiter in a restaurant, but is seen rarely in smart restaurants. If the bride walks on her father's left this will bring the father, instead of the bride, face to face with the groom when they reach the chancel. The maroon tie is fad and fads while often amusing in sports clothes, are to be avoided on occasions when good form is essential. A wedding is obviously such an occasion.

Salad at a Tea

Dear Mrs. Post: Do you think chicken salad, party sandwiches and cakes, tea and coffee would be enough to serve at a Sunday afternoon tea from 5 to 7 o'clock? Someone tells me that late Sunday afternoon refreshments should be next thing to supper and that there should be at least one hot dish.

Answer: Chicken salad really confuses me because it is too much food for afternoon tea and as a single dish, too little for a stand-up supper. A variety of sandwiches and cakes with the tea and coffee would be plenty unless the people in your community are accustomed to going to cocktail parties. In that case the late-comers especially, might expect a

Are You Dull or Lively When Writing Letters?

Simple To Make Letters Glow

So he's gone for a year! Will your letters keep fresh in his mind the bright attractive girl that is you?

Alas your letters can dispense your pretty image with a dull and dowdy one! If you go dead on paper with despairing remarks like "Well, I guess there is no more to say."

But learn the simple way to write a sprightly letter, and you can bet your life he won't forget you!

What to write to a boy in camp? Any little news about you, his friends, home—he's just thirsting for it! If there isn't any (but there must be!) write about Mrs. Todd's amazing new hat, the silly names you gave Tabby's kittens, the latest funny gag.

Tell him you miss him—but don't be tragic and gloomy! Think of his life in camp; after a pretty stiff routine he likes to read something light and pleasant.

And watch your grammar! Errors like "hadn't ought" for "ought not" and "excepting" for "except" may puzzle a boy who thought you were smart.

If you get stuck, look at a few model letters. Our 32-page booklet has 24 excellent letters of all types—friendly, social, business. Gives pointers on grammar, vocabulary, topics to write about.

For that matter, it is always best to have something not sweet, such as egg or lettuce or meat-filled sandwiches or thin bread and butter even when serving nothing but tea.

Remorse Kills Actor

Remorse for a murder he committed caused Doc Hong-ping, 22 years old, an actor, to take his own life in the French Concession in Shanghai, China. In a last letter he confessed stabbing Miss Wang Yi-ching in the back in a darkened moving picture theatre. The baffled police had been unable to find a single clew until his letter cleared the mystery.

Miss Nan Gillison was given a surprise party Friday evening in honor of her birthday.

The annual fair and dinner of the Mt. Marion Church will be held Tuesday under the sponsorship of the Parent-Teacher Association.

Professor and Mrs. Donald Ramsdell and daughter, Anne, of

Students to Pay Teachers

Yellow Springs, O. (P)—Antioch College faculty members may have to treat students with extra deference next year. To help reduce the college's general fund deficit, the students in a secret vote decided 11 to 1 to contribute $25 each to faculty salaries in 1941-42. This will be in addition to their regular tuition fees.

It's 8 ways better!
Try it and see!

"ME GET EXCITED over a cake of soap?" Is that you—being indifferent? Wait—listen!

Take off that cheery Swan wrapper; look at that luscious, pure, white cake; feel the smooth firmness of it; smell the clean freshness of it. And next thing you know—you're falling for Swan, the first honest-to-goodness different floating soap in your whole lifetime!

Different? Yes—better in eight distinct ways!

1. Whiter! Pure as imported castile!

Swan's as mild, by test, as imported olive oil castile—considered until now tops in mildness—the recognized "baby" soap. As for Swan's purity, ask your doctor. He has the details in his medical journals.

2. Suds two times quicker!

Swan breaks into rich, creamy, luxurious suds two times quicker than old-style floating soaps. Suds that don't go flat if you leave your dishpan a minute.

3. Much firmer! Lasts and lasts!

Feel this harder, firmer cake and you can tell it has far less moisture than old-style floating soaps.

4. Lathers swell in hard water!

Swan gives rich lather in hard water—while old-style floating soaps give only a few skimpy suds!

5. Breaks as if sliced!

No need to find a knife or string to cut Swan. No jagged, rough edges. It breaks smoothly into two lovely cakes—one for kitchen, one for bathroom.

6. Swan smells fresher!

Never harsh or strong. And it keeps its fresh, clean, wholesome odor down to the last useful sliver.

7. Smoother, finer-textured!

Swan's richer—yet it's so money-saving you'll feel free to use it all over the house. It won't warp out of shape, either.

8. Gives you more real soap!

Swan has much less moisture than old-style floating soap. No need to store a supply to harden. We've done it!

Order Swan from your store today... and compare! Use it for face, hands, bath; for baby; for silks, dishes; for woodwork. Then—if you don't say: "Swan for us!"—we'll give you double your money back. Simply send the wrapper to Swan, Lever Brothers Company, Cambridge, Mass.

May Insurance Benefits Lower

Albany, N. Y., June 18—Unemployment insurance benefits totaling $6,222,264 were paid to unemployed men and women of New York state during May, according to a report issued today by Industrial Commissioner Frieda S. Miller. This sum was distributed by means of 523,755 checks, the average weekly payment amounting to $11.74.

These payments were substantially larger than in the preceding month, a normal development since a large number of unemployed workers file new claims for benefits in April, the first month of the new benefit year. They draw their checks during May. Nevertheless, the total is less than for the month of February, and 40 per cent less than a year ago. Declines from last year were particularly marked in leading upstate centers such as Buffalo, where payments were reduced by 67 per cent and in Rochester, Syracuse, Utica, and Albany where declines exceeded 50 per cent.

May payments for the Kingston employment office amounted to $20,388.50 for the 1940-1941 benefit year, in the form of 1,848 separate checks to unemployed persons. The average benefit payment for a single week of unemployment in the Kingston area was $10.79 for the month.

At the close of May, $243,553.345 was available for future claims of unemployed persons in New York State, an increase of more than $6,000,000 over April 1941 and more than $36,000,000 above the sum on hand a year ago.

When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to go to bed earlier and earlier. Shows such as starting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and seek medical advice.

When dinner of kidney function permits a poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, pressure under the eyes, headache and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Library Notes

Last Thursday evening the Woodstock Library had its annual meeting and while I attended I thought it might add a little if I saw Miss Isabel Doughty, the president of the executive committee. Miss Doughty has really been doing a good job. She certainly has a flair for conducting the meetings so that they are really something to be enjoyed. I mentioned something of this to her and found out that she has had interesting experiences in an executive capacity. She was executive secretary of the radio committee, which put on the first radio program for the National League of Voters in New York. This plan is still followed by "Town Hall." She has also served on the financial committee of the new school for social research and has managed the Book Shop for the same organization. This is not all, she is a poet. She wouldn't talk much about this but I did find out that she has had her work published in "Poetry," one of the oldest poetry magazines in the country. Instead she led me right on to discuss the library meeting. Some of the highlights of the evening were the reports by the various committee chairmen. Mrs. Joseph Friedberg reported the new acquisition of a fine collection of chamber music given by Engelbert Roentgen. As the handsome binders drew our attention Miss Elsa, chairman of the bookbinding committee, told us that this work was part of the splendid work done by the bookbinding group which meets at Mrs. Carl Eric Lindin's house. Miss Kimball Lindin's interest and skill in this important field. Another important gift to the library was the collection of books on music and musicians presented by Albert and Adolf Anderson of Wittenberg. With these additions to the library's present one, Miss Doughty feels that the music section will come near the high standard that the art collection has. Mrs. Thompson, the librarian read some of the letters written to her by pupils of the third and fourth grades of the Woodstock school. They were charmingly frank about the books they like most and appreciative of this service of the library. The library loaned 150 books this year to the school, for the children to choose from, close at hand. Mrs. Thompson also announced that through the sponsorship of the Library Extension Division of the University of the State of New York, Albany, we were able to obtain the services of an assistant, Miss Flora Davis. Her salary is paid by the WPA.

At this meeting the Woodstock friends of Free France plan to organize definitely. Heretofore the officers have contributed their interest and help in a temporary capacity. H. P. Buttrick as chairman and Miss Alice Henderson, vice chairman. The idea for this big meeting grew out of the interest shown at a former meeting at Miss Smith's home where over 100 people gathered. Also plans will be announced concerning a rally to be held in Woodstock July 14, (Bastille Day). Miss Kay Strozz will come from New York and put on a scene from Bernard Shaw's "Saint Joan." The proceeds from this entertainment will go to the great movement. Robert Elynn is contributing his theatre for the occasion.

Meeting Slated

Anita Smith tells me of an open meeting to be held next Saturday evening at the Villetta Library, Byrdcliffe, at 8 o'clock. All friends of France are invited. A speaker from New York will address the meeting and a movie will be shown. This meeting is sponsored by the Woodstock chapter of France Forever (France Quand Méme), a Free France movement backing de Gaulle and all Free French people all over the world. It's creed is to keep alive: Liberty, equality, fraternity.

advantage of Bob's ideas and direction before taking it in summer stock. I asked her about her new book, "Women and Peter," which is to be published in the early fall. Miss Landi told me it is the first time she dared give something about the stage and the people connected with it and that she had written it in her home near Kingston. The book is to be published in the early fall. This year she is to be the first to do the sets for the plays this year, and right opposite me was Carroll Lusk, you know, the one who did the priceless prop canvasses for the play, "The Late Christopher Bean," last year. Mr. Lusk's title is technical expert and he will add to his staff two young men from the University of Texas, Bob Harris and Mark Fuller. This year they plan to enlarge their scope by doing three sets for at least two of the plays. A new member of the theatre is Cowan Griffith, stage manager, with a varied and brilliant experience back of her. Royal Academy of Dramatic Art, London, stock in England, music halls in France, Belgium and Switzerland, also directed Kennebunkport for three years and has worked with Katherine Cornell. Bob and I agreed that Sally Rand's appearance in Woodstock ought to stir things up. She is to play in "Rain" by Clemmie Randolph and John Colton. The following week she will do the "Little Foxes." There is a chance that Roland Young may do something with the Woodstock play house but this is not certain. We got on the subject of Shakespeare. At this point Miss Landi grew terribly enthusiastic and the outcome of it all is that she and Bob want to do "Romeo and Juliet" and open with it next year. Plans are under way and we felt it would be this year, the same big event that it has always been.

Up at the Villetta Tuesday Bob and the cast were rehearsing their first play of the season, "The Shining Hour," which opens Thursday evening, June 26, at the Woodstock Theatre. They were in the thick of it when we arrived. During a rest period I had a chance to talk to Elisse Landi, who is star of the play, supported by Jack Grogan. Mr. Grogan was her leading man in "Romance," which they played in Kansas City and Miss Landi told me she was happy to do it first here in Woodstock because she wanted Bob's direction and though it would be a break for Jack Grogan to have the ANNOUNCING...

Our "SELF-SERVICE" SUPER-MARKET, located at 70-72 Franklin St., WILL OPEN FOR BUSINESS FRIDAY, JUNE 27th, at 8 A. M. It will be open for public inspection Thursday, June 26th, from 7 to 9 P. M. WATCH FOR OUR GRAND OPENING ADV. Next Week.

CHANGE OF POLICY

Changing trends of food merchandising have caused us to change our style of doing business from "credit and service" to "self-service and cash." Thursday, June 26th, will be the last day we will accept credit business and give free delivery. We will maintain a delivery service with a charge of 10c for each delivery. Savings resulting from this change of policy will be reflected in our shelf prices.

We will open our new modern, self-service, streamlined super-market for business on FRIDAY MORNING, JUNE 27th, at 8 A. M. Our market will be open for PUBLIC INSPECTION on Next THURSDAY EVENING, JUNE 26, from 7 to 9 o'clock.

Twenty years ago we foresaw the trend of store door delivery direct from the manufacturer by motor truck. From that time we have worked to establish direct buying connections and as a result, we enjoy today more direct buying privileges from manufacturers and packers than most retail food concerns in the country. We maintain our own warehouse and are really a wholesaler-retailer. We can sell you retail at wholesale prices. No distributing or trucking costs have to be added to our buying costs after we receive goods direct from the manufacturers.

This plan of merchandising has heretofore been offered to you under our credit and service style of business which has added materially to our prices. Now for the first time in Kingston and vicinity we give to the public the combined savings resulting from direct buying and the modern self-service, cash and carry method of merchandising. Even in the face of advancing markets our prices will be drastically reduced and you, MR. CONSUMER, will reap the benefit of these savings.

Issues Made New Highs Wednesday

Considerable Profit Taking Checked Upward Swing

Stocks opened higher on the New York Exchange Wednesday and improved until late in the day, when considerable profit taking appeared. Volume of 576,240 shares was best since June 10. During the upward move numerous issues made new highs for the move, 44 stocks selling at the best prices of the year. Although leading stocks dropped a half to a point from their best levels before the close, all Dow-Jones average showed gains for the day. The industrials were up .38 point, to close at 123.50; rails gained .10, to 28.29 and utilities were up .11, to 17.96 as strength in Commonwealth & Southern apparently affected favorably other issues. The issue led the list of 15 most active stocks and was up slightly on turnover of 25,500 shares. The preferred was up to 62 1/2, a new high, on a plan to pay off the issue with common stocks of subsidiary companies.

At the annual meeting of Commonwealth & Southern yesterday President Whiting announced that in an attempt to comply with the demands of the SEC the $1,140,000 corporation is considering plans to liquidate common stocks of its four important northern companies and confine itself to its five southern properties. Commodities as a whole were easier Wednesday as a tendency to reaction against the bull movement appeared and both the futures and spot indices were down for the day, the former losing .31 point. Wheat and cotton were under pressure, the former closing 1 1/4 to 1 1/2 cents a bushel lower for the day, while cotton, reflecting quiet conditions in the gray goods market, was off sharply, futures closing 75 cents a bale lower. Wheat and rye flour dropped five to ten cents a barrel in the Metropolitan area. Sugar market was strong. New highs for the season were established by domestic sugar futures, while an operator paid 3.55 cents a pound for 3,650 tons of Philippine raws now afloat. Hog prices at Chicago made further gains of 15 to 25 cents, top price being $10.15 cwt. Average price was $9.90, best since October, 1937.

Unwillingness of large meat packers to sell raw hides at the 15 cents a pound price set by the O. P. A. C. S. is bringing on a condition where tanners face sharply curtailed operations in the near future because of lack of supplies. Heavy and rising consumer demand, curtailed imports due to the shipping situation, government purchases of lard and dairy products and the scaling down of cotton crop estimates, are reasons behind the persistent rise in fats and oils.

W. S. Knudsen, director of O. P. A. M., believes that a shortage of raw materials will keep the automobile industry from producing around 4,200,000 units the coming model year, or 80 per cent of the present model year. Denies any request for a 50 per cent cut in production.

New York, June 19 (AP)—Leading stocks stumbled at intervals in today's market without running into any real weakness.

Reactionary tendencies appeared after a hesitant start but dealings turned exceptionally sluggish. Selling then seemed to have run its course and losses of fractions to a point were reduced or converted into modest advances here and there near the final hour, transfers were at the rate of about 400,000 shares.

The business picture provided a moderately sustaining speculative and investment influence, brokers said, but the war news, including the Nazi-Turkish pact, British difficulties in Syria and Africa, and the big question of Russian-German relations tended to dim sentiment.

Bonds and commodities got nowhere in particular.

Stocks inclined to falter were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, American Telephone, Sears Roebuck, Westinghouse, N. Y. Central, Standard Oil (N. J.), American Can and Anaconda.

Up occasionally were Standard Oil of Cal., U. S. Rubber, Sperry, Kennecott and Consolidated Edison.

Backward in the curb were Aluminum of America, Bell Aircraft, Humble Oil and American Light and Traction. Ahead now and then were Gulf Oil, American Cyanamid "B" and Glen Alden Coal.

Boxer Joe Louis Shifts
Scales of Fight to Take
Victory; Conn Amazes
55,000 Fans

By GAYLE TALBOT

New York, June 19 (AP)—For a split second, golden moments last night, Billy Conn of Pittsburgh had the heavyweight championship of the world within his grasp. Then Billy gambled, tried to catch punches with Joe Louis, and the big negro snapped out of his strange lethargy and knocked Conn kicking in the 13th round before a thrilled crowd at the Polo Grounds.

Conn, the 174-pound gamblers, was well in front when the end came, suddenly and unexpectedly. Louis, drawn too fine in his training, had looked a slow, sultry defender of the crown. Conn had danced around him for half the distance, tied him up in the clinches, then had come on to slap the boxer's teeth out.

At the end of the 11th round the Pittsburgh wonder boy had spread his mouth wide in a grin as he returned to his corner and waved triumphantly to the gallery stretching far back into the dark stands. He thought he was "in", and so did an amazed audience.

Louis Looks Slow

In the twelfth round, the slim, handsome challenger sent Louis reeling against the ropes with a vicious two-fisted attack. Louis looked slow, unable to take advantage of the targets offered

Toledo, O., June 19 (AP)—Off and running in a four-day gallop for gold and glory, 16 of the country's No. 1 professionals opened the seventh annual $7,000 Inverness invitational four-ball matches today.

Par was expected to take a terrific beating, as usual, in the best ball classic, with at least 200 birdsies and several eagles being snared in the seven rounds of match play.

Today's round scheduled these matches: Lloyd Mangrum and Harold (Jug) McSpaden vs. Jimmie Demaret and Ben Hogan; Sam Byrd and Johnny Bulla vs. Henry Picard and Johnny Revolta; Clayton Haefner and Dick Metz vs. Ralph Guldahl and E. J. (Dutch) Harrison, and Horton Smith and Lawson Little vs. Jimmy Thomson and Byron Nelson.

Play' Recs Friday Night

Conn Still Smiling

Then they half-carried the strapping back to his corner, the blood pouring from his nose and from a cut under his eye. He still had a smile on his lips, a kid full of courage and glory. Later he cried in his dressing room as though his heart would break, but the last the crowd saw of him he was holding out his hand in congratulations to the negro who had beat him down.

Conn has a heavyweight fight crowd seen the scales of victory shift so suddenly. Up to the instant when Louis caught and downed his man, it looked as though Conn had made good his boast and bedazzled the champion, a far bigger man. Louis, for all his 199½ pounds and his vaunted punch, had looked like a slothful, disgusted fighter up to the instant when he connected.

Early in the fight, in the second round, Louis shuffled in and poured punches into Conn's stomach. The kid looked in bad shape. The fight-wise ringhands nudged each other and said it was about over.

Conn Uses Left

But the third round saw Billy open up in spectacular fashion and slap Louis all over the ring. Louis looked a sucker for Conn's left hook. The champion appeared unable to untrack himself. His handlers said later that they were fearful at that stage. Louis, soberly, admitted when it ended that Conn had surprised him with his speed and ability to take punishment.

Again in the fifth Louis came alive and belabored Conn's middle, sending the challenger wobbling to his corner when the round closed, but that still didn't daunt Billy. He managed to get through the sixth on even terms, and the seventh began the rally that had the title won for him when he had surprised both careless and confident in the 13th.

Champion Is Pounded

Conn won the eighth round and the ninth, lost the tenth, and then spurred to capture the eleventh and the twelfth. The roar of the crowd echoed across the nearby Harlem river as the boy who "didn't have a chance" increased his pace to step around Louis and pound the champion from every angle.

Louis up to this point had not reached Conn with a single right to the head. Billy had reason to feel confident. He had caught the over-trained champion with a flurry in the 12th that had sent Louis, befuddled, into the ropes. He had made a terrific fight of it every second of the way. He had the championship in his right fist.

And then it happened to him. He became in an instant only the 18th victim of Joe Louis since the big negro won the title.

The official paid attendance was announced as 54,487 with an approximate gross gate of $450,000—making up the most attractive fight from a financial standpoint since 72,000 saw the second tussle between Louis and Max Schmeling three years ago.

100 Paddlers Will Compete In Annual Canoe Regatta At Williams Lake Sunday

Yonkers Club Is Favored To Capture Trophy;

90 Medals Will Be Given Winners

Canoe racing will hold the water sports spotlight in Ulster county Sunday afternoon when more than 100 husky paddlers will compete at the annual Williams Lake Canoe Regatta in Rosendale. The American Canoe Racing Association has sponsored this Williams Lake event for the last three years and expects the fourth annual event Sunday afternoon to be even more colorful than those in the past.

Racing paddlers from New York, Paterson, Newark, Brooklyn, Philadelphia, Trenton, Washington, Boston, and many other principal eastern cities will be on hand for the competition. More than 100 paddlers will be entertained over the weekend by the Williams Lake Athletic Club which is presenting the canoe racing program as its first sports competition of the 1941 season.

Yonkers Club Strong

The Yonkers Canoe Club led by Harold Bruns again is favored to win the team trophy as well as a good share of the 90 individual medals being offered to place winners.

The Yonkers boys, however, will have plenty of stiff competition from the Pendleton Canoe Club led by the best individual paddler ever developed in this country, Ernie Reidel, who makes a habit of winning team trophies single-handed.

Reidel, a former Olympian, will have keen competition from his former Olympic teammate, Bill Collins, of the Inwood Canoe Club of New York.

Washington Sending Team

The Washington, D. C., Canoe Club is sending a five-man team led by William Havens, Jr., National Tiltling Champion for the last five years. Havens and Adolph Spriggin, who represents the Viking Canoe Club of Hackensack, N. J., are favored to win the tilting title at Williams Lake.

The eight-hour program of races, canoe tilting and other canoe stunts will be under the direction of Walter Haner, chairman of the Atlantic Division Paddling Committee.

George Ryan, chairman of the U. S. Paddling Committee, and Albert Bauer, coach of the last U. S. Olympic team, will be on hand to officiate.

Stricken Mother Is Proud of Conn on Hearing of Result

Mother of Young Fighter Shows Pluck When Told of Billy's Defeat; Sister Collapses

Pittsburgh, June 19 (UPI)—The mother of Billy Conn can take it on the chin with a smile as well as her big laughing boy.

Mrs. Margaret Conn, only 41 but stricken with a usually fatal malady, showed her pluck last night when a sister, Mrs. Rose Shook, came upstairs to her bedroom to tell her of Conn's knockout by Joe Louis in the unlucky 13th round in New York.

"That's all right, Rose," whispered the mother. "I know. I'm proud of Billy."

She had been too ill to have a radio in her darkened bedroom where a nurse sat by her side. But she might have received an inkling of the fight from the two radios downstairs where the womenfolk of the family gathered and tensely listened to the broadcast.

Mary Jane Conn, 20-year-old "boss" of the house since her mother has been in bed, collapsed in her chair as the referee was counting out her brother. Then she sobbed, as did some of the other cousins and aunts present, but not 11-year-old red-haired Peggy Ann Conn who piped:

"If he only could have gotten up. But he'll get another match and he'll beat that Joe Louis then. I'll bet you."

Billy telephoned home after the fight as he has been doing daily from his training camp. He promised again to get "mom" the title—"next time."

Fights Last Night

(By The Associated Press)

New York—Joe Louis, 199½, Detroit, knocked out Billy Conn, 174, Pittsburgh, to retain world heavyweight championship (13); Tommy Tucker, 174, New York, outpointed Charlie Harvey, 184½, New York, (6); Holman Williams, 152½, Detroit, outpointed Antonio Fernandez, 149, Chile, (6).

Cards Turn Back Phillies by 7-3; Cubs Register Win Over Brooks; Reds Lose 4-2

(By The Associated Press)

The Cleveland Indians suddenly have become ferocious on the plate and look capable of gobbling up the lesser lights of the American League in big gulps.

All that has kept the Tribe from making a runaway of the pennant race before now has been weak hitting and, everything considered, they have been doing right well with their tap and touch system. Yesterday, however, they really opened up—getting 17 hits including five home runs and four doubles to overwhelm the Philadelphia Athletics, 14-2. They scored seven runs in a rousing second inning and kept pouring on the power right on through the game. Hal Trosky hit two home runs and Lou Boudreau, Ray Mack and Ken Keltner one apiece.

Feller Wins 14th

This display of fireworks was accompanied by a four-hit pitching performance by Bob Feller, who coasted to his 14th victory of the campaign.

The Indians' first place margin was increased to three full games as the Chicago White Sox trimmed the New York Yankees by one run for the second day in succession, 3-2.

Spud Chandler of the Yanks, who hadn't won a game all year and wanted this one badly to celebrate the birth of his first baby Tuesday, pitched five-hit ball. But the Sox made use of four of these hits to get enough runs to win. Lefty Thornton Lee was tagged for 10 hits by the Yanks, but the only one that counted was Charley Keller's homer with one on.

Tigers Defeat Boston

The Detroit Tigers tore into the Boston Red Sox for a 5-2 victory behind the steady, eight-hit hurling of Lynwood (Schoolboy) Rowe, who gave up only one extra-base blow, a homer by Jimmie Foxx.

The St. Louis Browns squeezed out a 3-2 verdict over the Washington Senators in a night game that drew a meager crowd of 7,000 at the nation's capital. Harland Clift drove in two of the Browns' runs with a single and a triple while a home run by Cecil Travis accounted for the Senators' only tally.

The St. Louis Cardinals continued their climb in the National League with a 7-3 triumph over the Phillies while the second-place Brooklyn Dodgers were dropping a 5-1 nod to the Chicago Cubs.

Max Lanier pitched six-hit ball for the Cardinals and Johnny Hopp and Enos Slaughter backed him up with a pair of two-run homers.

Leiber Poles Two Homers

The Dodgers were smothered under the five-hit pitching of Vern Olsen, who would have had his third consecutive shutout except for a home run by Joe Medwick in the ninth inning. As it was Olsen up a string of 30 consecutive scoreless innings. Hank Leiber led the Cards' assault on three Brooklyn pitchers with two home runs.

The Boston Braves beat the Cincinnati Reds 4-2 with Al Javerry besting Johnny Vander Meer in a pitching duel in which each allowed seven hits. Javerry fanned only two compared to Olsen's seven, but he was more effective and had only one bad inning, the sixth, when Bill Werner's double, Lonnie Frey's triple and an error gave the Reds both their runs.

Curfew Stops Giants-Bucs

Baseball's curfew rule caused its first major league tie in a struggle between the New York Giants and Pittsburgh Pirates which was interrupted for an hour in order that the fans in Pittsburgh could listen to a broadcast of the heavyweight championship bout of Joe Louis and their hometown hero, Billy Conn.

The game was stopped with the score tied 2-2 in the middle of the fourth inning and although the teams played a total of 11 frames, there never was any more scoring. Mel Ott's 17th home run was one of New York's scores while Bob Elliott's triple accounted for both Pittsburgh runs. Max Butcher went the route for the Pirates, allowing eight hits.

The Boston Braves beat the Cincinnati Reds 4-2 with Al Javerry besting Johnny Vander Meer in a pitching duel in which each allowed seven hits. Javerry fanned only two compared to Olsen's seven, but he was more effective and had only one bad inning, the sixth, when Bill Werner's double, Lonnie Frey's triple and an error gave the Reds both their runs.
